

October 30, 2025: Tonight's Movie and the Homeless Invasion

Tonight's Movie: Shades of Darkness (2000)

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0160859/?ref=mv_close

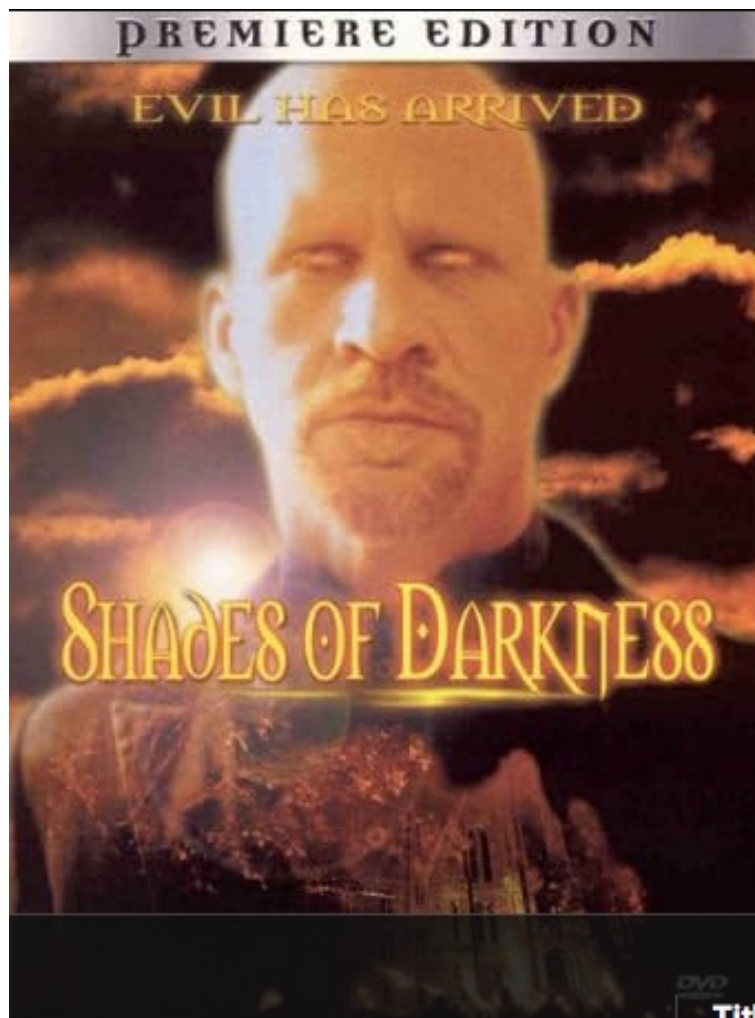

And in other news, our neighbors are now coming to our door to alert us that a homeless person is apparently sleeping below the front window of our house at night - in the middle of a normal city block - far from any main street.

If I were a betting man, I would place my money on the fact that the 'Mac' is now using poverty stricken people as weapons against their political opposition.

For the record, I believe in donations to help support those that are unable to support themselves - I am adamantly opposed to a military that is extorting politicians for trillion of dollars of American (or any other country's) tax dollars.

Get fucked, militurds. You have squandered away our world's surplus and you all need to re-evaluate you life's choices.

Oh the movie plot? Anne Treble-Cock returns to her hometown to find that John MAC-Z-Ko is threatening to destroy her and the entire population.

Who thinks of this stuff? Nazis do. Nazis think of exactly this kind of stuff.

And now you know why!
It's called a Wampum belt!

They have whole families of zombies and demons participating in their little prostitution for extortion scam.

Save the world, starve the military.